The most comprehensive U.S. newspaper resource

News happens everywhere, from small towns to big cities across the United States. America's News enables library patrons to pinpoint information on people, issues and events in the local area or around the country. This comprehensive resource offers tens of millions of current and archived full-text articles from newspapers nationwide in a single, fully searchable online database. It includes the complete electronic editions of more than 1,890 U.S. newspapers and news video clips—with 85% of these sources not available in any other library database.

An ideal resource for many types of research

Librarians recognize newspaper collections as a valuable and widely used resource. America's News provides patrons with authoritative, staff-written coverage of local and national topics, along with specific articles, obituaries, statistics, video clips, quotations, facts, analysis and much more. With unlimited access to America's News from all library workstations—and remote access 24/7 for most titles—patrons can freely search, browse, print, save and email full-text articles without a per-article fee. Beyond, America's News can be enhanced with the addition of a variety of specialized, cross-searchable news and information resources that address specific areas of interest.

One-click access to valuable local perspectives

America's News features an intuitive interface that lets patrons use a U.S. map to quickly select and search one or more local newspapers, a group of titles across a state or region, specific papers nationwide or the entire collection. This interface can be customized to reflect the demographics the library serves, ensuring that patrons can easily access specific newspapers in the library's collection. Also, patrons can search articles by headline, name, topic, date, author and section, with the option to view results by date or relevance ranking. The powerful search engine retrieves hundreds or even thousands of articles on a particular subject in seconds.

Enhanced interface improves search results

With NewsBank's streamlined new interface, users can pinpoint useful information and navigate quickly and efficiently through millions of articles. Additionally, there are two versions of the interface, one in English and the other in Spanish—an ideal feature for Spanish speakers or students of a second language. America's News offers MARC records that enable librarians to link directly to each newspaper's search page, along with OpenURLs.
